Heritage to celebrate 10th anniversary

The Heritage will celebrate its 10th. anniversary this year. They opened their doors in July 1998.

Mary Ann Glowinski has been with her building for the full 10 years. She has been managing the building for 9 of the 10 years, and said she has enjoyed every minute of it. She said she has a wonderful staff, Jeff Fornear and Mary Ewaskowitz. "Without them I would have my hands full," she said.

Glowinski said they are blessed to have 13 residents who have been with them the full 10 years. On July 19, they will be celebrating their big 10 by having a family picnic, and are hoping to have a great turn out. They have had a great 10 years, Glowinski said.

They added a beauty shop on site along with a gazebo. Screens were also donated by Lois Pulliam. A beautiful exercise room was painted by Sue Thome in memory of her mother Lorraine. They have beautiful gardens in the backyard, have had many of the trees donated by residents Shiley Voght, Art and Dorothy Spilburg, Betty Baker Family and the Batterham Family. They were able to purchase an automatic handicap door opener in memory of Donald Betts. They had their enter code phone updated with larger numbers in memory of Lucille Ritchey. They have two beautiful benches in their front patio donated in memory of Mike and Joyce Kalvestrand.

Glowinski said they had many donations and wonderful volunteers help raise money for a new nine-passenger van in 2006. They were able to pay it off in full with in 1 year. The family of Charles & Rose Plotz made that possible.

C & W celebrates 61 years

C & W Remodeling is celebrating 61 years of total commitment to our customers providing quality products, expert installation and service. C & W remodels kitchens from start to completion, featuring Merillat cabinetry; tile, hardwood, and laminate flooring; and solid surface, tile and granite countertops.

C & W Remodeling specializes in complete bathroom remodeling. Tearing out hundreds of bathrooms, we found that mold and mildew is inherent in tub and shower areas. Therefore, just covering up the tub and shower area does nothing to remove mold and mildew. C & W does only total replacement – at a cost that is competitive to those who cover up problems, using these quality products: Swanstone solid surface showers and vanity tops, Lippert

O'Leary celebrates 50 years of business

By Kurt Killberg

EAST TROY NEWS EDITOR

O'Leary Heating and Plumbing, Inc., is celebrating 50 years as a family business in East Troy this year.

Ray and Ruth O'Leary started the business in 1958. They sold the farm at what is now the village landfill site and Ray then went to Wisconsin Motor in Waukesha. He worked part-time with well pumps, and then he got into full-time well work and grew to plumbing, heating and septic systems.

The business got bigger and bigger over time. Dan O'Leary joined full-time in 1975, and Tim joined in 1978.

Today the business has 27 employees, and 14 plumbers.

In 1991 the business was incorporated, and that is when Dan and Tim became the owners. In 2001 the business moved to its current location at 2720 Buell Drive, though they still maintain shops and a building on O'Leary Lane.

A kick-off anniversary bash/ St. Patrick's Day party was held March 14 at Ivan's on the Square. O'Leary always has a St. Pat's party, so they thought it was a good time to kick-off the anniversary celebration.

They will also have a large entry in the Fourth of July parade this year, and other events such as an open house throughout the year.

In memory of Ray and Ruth, two scholarships will be given this year to East Troy High School students. One will be for trade, and the other for business-related courses. Ray died in 1994 and Ruth passed away last year, and they thought it was a good year to do the scholarships. "They're with us in spirit," Marge said.

O'Leary thanks the community and their employees, past and current, for years of continued support and welcome everyone to celebrate with them.

O'Leary offers services ranging from new home, remodeling and light commercial plumbing to well and septic design and installation; soil testing; well cleaning; water softening and drinking water solutions. They also design and install hydronic radiant in-floor heating, thermal solar water heating, high velocity A/C and geothermal. The service department also offers complete 24-hour service.

A Web site, www.olearyplumbingand-heating.com, has also been launched. The site will offer information and education, and links to some connecting product lines and resources, such as Focus on Energy and Walworth County.

President Dan O'Leary said that when Ray started the business, it was on a party line. He noted the business evolved from there to using a telephone line, then a fax machine, then car phones, then cell phones, e-mail and now a Web site.

The company is "service-friendly," and its basis and construction is geared towards service.

Kiwanis Manor needs your help

By Kurt Killberg

EAST TROY NEWS EDITOR

After serving East Troy for over 30 years, the Kiwanis Manor is looking for the community's help to financially keep it afloat.

The Manor is now experiencing a cash crisis, which is best demonstrated by the fact they have outstanding accounts payable that are at least $400,000 greater than their outstanding accounts receivable, according to a press release. Their vendors have been patient, but as their bills remain unpaid for 90-120 days past the due date they are becoming very impatient, according to Manor officials. Several have threatened various types of legal action if funds are not forthcoming very soon, and a judgment in court against the Manor is expected in the next two weeks.

The history

In the mid 1970s Merrill Pinch inspired others to give birth to the Manor. Their vision was for East Troy to have a facility where elderly individuals could live in comfort, close to their families, friends, churches, businesses and doctors that they had learned to rely on for years, according to a press release. At the time there was a nursing home in Whitewater, Burlington, Elkhorn and many in the Milwaukee area. East

Troy residents had to leave the community for skilled care, and that struck these men as being wrong. A quarter million dollars was subsequently raised in 1974 and 1975.

Questions about Save the Manor answered

By Eric Kramer

KIWANIS CLUB BOARD MEMBER

In the three weeks since Kiwanis Manor launched its Save the Manor campaign donations and pledges of more than $34,000 have been received, not counting the special collections that have been taken at local churches. While this is well short of the actual amount needed to guarantee the survival of the Manor, it is a statement that the community realizes the role the Manor plays in our lives.

Questions that have been frequently voiced by members of the community, and some answers, follow:

Will the $400,000 goal of the Save the Manor fund assure the survival of the Manor, or will there be substantial operating deficits in years to come? The

Cleaning & Restoration Consultants announces affiliation

Rodney Meiller is proud to announce his business Cleaning & Restoration Consultants, Inc. has recently affiliated with Rainbow International of Kettle Moraine. His franchise area with Rainbow International includes the counties of Walworth, Jefferson and Waukesha. With over 25 years of experience in the carpet cleaning and restoration industry, he currently holds more certifications than anyone in the entire state of Wisconsin.

His Rainbow International team offers 24/7 response 365 days a year to any disaster. Their exclusive rapid structural drying techniques can save flooring and other structural components to lower severity costs on water damage claims; thus, resulting in faster re-occupancy. Use of state-of-the-art equipment, i.e., psychometric monitoring equipment and a thermal imaging camera, as well as HEPA air scrubbers and commercial dehumidifiers, insures that your structure will be a safe and healthy environment to return to. (See ad in this publication).

Meiller is a proud and respected member of this community and looks forward to serving the needs of the citizens and businesses of Southeastern Wisconsin. Feel free to contact his office with any questions you might have at (262) 728-8007.

Vintage Hobby Farm and Butterfly Life Child Care are both owned by Jennifer and Justin Martinez. The farm will be offering a 10-family CSA this summer along with Heritage Breed Chickens and Turkeys. They also raise Scottish Highland Cattle and sell Farm Fresh eggs. They are a farm that believes in bringing Heritage Breeds back into farming and keeping the dream of family farming alive. The remainder of produce along with one garden will be donated to local food pantries and elderly families not able to garden anymore.

The children that go to Butterfly Life Family Child Care learn many things not typical at a Child Care Center. They learn what it is like to live on a farm, they learn how to plant and harvest vegetables for snack and meals, they watch the animals as they graze and enjoy the fresh air. They experience the springtime babies and farm atmosphere. Inside they learn how to bake bread, clean up their messes, and respect one another. They learn that food comes from earth, not just the grocery store or restaurant. Real life values are taught at Butterfly Life Child Care, along with school readiness education. Each child gets a lot of attention and hands on activities due to the small group of kids. This is a wonderful learning experience for children. They learn that America once was made of farms and how they once lived.

You may ask what is a CSA? CSA stands for Community Supported Agriculture. This is a way for families and individuals to become shareholders in a local farm for a season. We are now realizing the importance of eating fresh, locally-grown food. Supporting local farms not only helps give back to the earth but also creates healthy communities and healthy bodies. CSA shareholders will receive 10-15 pounds of fresh fruit and vegetables every week in exchange for their financial support.

To learn more go to www.vintagehobbyfarm.com or call Jennifer at (262) 684-5135.

Green bag comes to East Troy

"Paper or plastic?" That's a familiar refrain for all grocery shoppers. And what do you say? Paper means cutting down trees, and plastic is made from crude oil and clogs the landfill. Paper is a little better because trees are a renewable resource, but the most eco-friendly bag is a re-usable one. And now, thanks to the East Troy Area Chamber of Commerce, East Troy shoppers will have their own "green" bag just in time for Earth Day, April 26.

The chamber has selected a sturdy shopping bag made of natural washable canvas by Enviro-Tote Inc. in Bedford, New Hampshire. The bags will have the words "I am Green in East Troy" and the band stand emblem printed in green ink. They will be filled with discount coupons and other goodies from participating area merchants, and sell for $8.95 each.

You can get your East Troy Green Bag on April 26 at the Chamber's Earth Day booth near Mielke's. After Earth Day, the bags will continue to be sold during the summer at participating area stores and businesses. For more information, contact the East Troy Area Chamber of Commerce office at 642-3770.

Celebrate Earth Day in East Troy and get the green bag habit so the next time you get asked the question "Paper or plastic?" your can just say "Green Bag it, please."

Camp Invention coming to East Troy schools

Children will have the opportunity to design miniature amusement park rides, create safe vehicles, and brainstorm on Planet ZAK when the Camp Invention program arrives at East Troy Community Schools for the first time ever this summer. Open to children entering first through sixth grades, the program is scheduled for July 21 through July 25 at Prairie View Elementary School.

The camp Invention program fosters creativity, teamwork, inventive-thinking skills and science literacy. The program was created in 1990 by the National Inventors Hall of Fame Foundation, and receives support from the United States Patent and Trademark Office.

Throughout each day, children will participate in hands-on, interactive activities that encourage creativity and inventive solutions. Eileen Schieble, the East Troy K-12 Gifted Program Coordinator, will direct a staff of local instructors and counselors. The program features a low staff-child ratio, with one staff member for every eight children.

"Camp Invention's creators surprise and delight us with their innovative approach to education," Schieble said. "Children who attend Camp Invention learn skills that enhance their abilities to brainstorm, solve problems and work as a team. As educators and parents, we know that children of all ages should continue sharpening these skills as we enter an era in which critical thinking will be extremely important to their future."

More than 60,000 children in 48 states across the country attended the Camp Invention program in 2007. "Camp Invention is the perfect program for local communities," explains Schieble. "The curricula we offer each summer provides a fun and creative educational experience in the community where a child lives. Local educators put their own spin on the program so that each of our sites is slightly different. We value the fact that we can offer that kind of flexibility."

The camp Invention program gets accolades from around the country. The president of the American Chemical Society, Catherine T. Hunt, spoke on National Public Radio's Science Friday last August regarding Camp Invention as "bringing forward the next generation of inventors." In addition, a Harvard study released in 2006 praised the Camp Invention program for its innovative hands-on enrichment activities. The program has been featured in more than two hundred newspapers and magazines, including Child, Invention & Technology, Inventors' Digest, Scientific American Explorations, PTO Today, Gifted Child Today and others.

The $205 registration fee, due on or before May 31, includes daily snacks and a t-shirt. A discount of $20 per child is offered with early registration by March 31 and the bring-a-friend program. There is also an additional $5 discount for online registrants. Registrations received after May 31 requires a $20 late processing fee.

members was Bill Pulliam, who articulated the three, coequal, primary goals of the Manor while he served on the Board of Directors.

Manor officials say if a bed is available and you need it, you can have it. They are the only known facility in Walworth County that does not require a net worth statement or statement of financial resources prior to admittance, according to the release.

There are trade-offs with that policy, however. Residents that have no assets, either because they never had any or they have given them away, may qualify for Title XIX benefits, or Medicaid and welfare payments. In 2006, the combination of state and federal payments for the care of these residents was approximately $25 per day less than the actual cost of providing the services. In 2007, funding was cut by $3 per day per resident backdated to October. Reimbursement is now at least $30 per day less than the cost of care.

Many factors contributed to the Manor's current situation. In 2006, their state survey was extremely disappointing. The Manor was cited for numerous violations as a result of what they called outdated policies and procedures, and the declining physical condition of the building. The net cost of correcting the operational problems was about $250,000.

The Manor had seen the Kiwanis Colonial as its light at the end of the tunnel for four years, though they are now are reluctant to bring its plans to fruition. The assisted living facility is intended to be built immediately adjacent to the Manor and include a therapy and rehabilitation center to attract more short-term residents that are paid for with Each program is limited to 110 children.

Knutson Bros. II joins Green Built Home

Knutson Bros. II has joined Green Built Home—a national award-winning green built initiative that reviews and certifies that their remodeling projects meet maintainable construction, design and operation of green buildings and energy standards.

Green is in high demand. Homeowners today face rising energy prices and indoor health hazards and live with the pressing fear of global warming.

The environmental Protection Agency (EPA) warns about the health effects of poor indoor air quality from the off-gases of Volatile Organic Compounds (VOCs).

Manufacturers have responded with some environmentally-friendly innovations that reduce off-gassing in materials such as insulation, paints, stains, carpeting, flooring and countertops.

The idea behind green building is to increase the buildings efficiency and their use of resources like energy, water and building materials to protect human health and the environment.

Knutson Bros. II is proud to part of the Green Built Home program. You can learn more about this program at www.greenbuilthome.org.

New business hopes to heal East Troy

By Kurt Killberg
EAST TROY NEWS EDITOR

East Troy Acupuncture, 3066 W. Main St. Suite 104, is looking to help the East Troy community using Chinese healing methods.

Brandon LaGreca, a licensed acupuncturist, received a Bachelor of Science degree in biology and said he started on the pre-med route. Then he decided to go a different route.

LaGreca said he had three or four schools he was looking into. Since he could not decide which one to attend, he said he decided to wait a week and see if he'd receive any sign to help make his decision.

LaGreca said during that week he saw several signs for Oregon (where one of the schools was located), including a magazine article and license plate, so his choice was clear. His mother's cousin also lived in a suburb of Portland, so he stayed with her once he was there. LaGreca then took a three-year Chinese medicine program and worked in a clinic. He also met his fiancé, who is a student of organic farming at the Michaels Fields Agricultural Institute in East Troy.

LaGreca also studied in China for five weeks and worked in hospitals. He said the Chinese have the opposite approach to America, as acupuncture has been practiced for thousands of years and western medicine has been integrated into it.

LaGreca said the business has had a good response so far. He gave a lecture March 2, and said people have been asking questions. He urges people to call to ask if something can be treated by Chinese medicine, and said he can refer them otherwise.

East Troy Acupuncture has a room where LaGreca can talk with patients in private, and a group treatment room with chairs where up to three patients can be treated. He works at removing blockages, and letting the body do the rest. He said that is why Chinese medicine can treat anyone – it treats the person instead of the disease.

He also uses herbs to help with different things when patients come in, and sells medicinal teas. LaGreca is considering eventually bringing in a massage therapist.

LaGreca hopes that with treatment, people eventually will not need him. "My ultimate goal is to put myself out of business," LaGreca said.

LaGreca can treat a few patients at once in a community clinic, and offers a sliding scale of $15-35 a treatment. Patients can come in more often that way and it is more affordable.

LaGreca said it is a way to help the working class and one solution to the national health care crisis. The traditional treatment is $65 per session.

A reading corner is also offered, and patients can use that without appointments.

For more information call 642-HEAL or go to www.EastTroyAcupuncture.com

Boyes brings experience to chief position

By Kurt Killberg
EAST TROY NEWS EDITOR

The Village of East Troy's new Chief of Police brings with him several years of experience, and a familiarity with Wisconsin.

Alan Boyes said the position was posted on the Wisconsin Law Enforcement Web site, so he applied from there. The recruitment process was nationally-advertised, according to a press release from the village.

The East Troy Village Board approved of Boyes taking the position Oct. 22. He began the job Dec. 17, replacing Interim Police Chief Robert W. Roberts. David Fox retired last summer after 38 years on the force.

Boyes said he used to live in Eau Claire. He now lives in Lindenhurst, which is near the Wisconsin border.

Boyes has over 20 years of law enforcement experience, a Bachelor's Degree in criminal justice from Columbia College and a Master's Degree in business and organizational management from Webster University. He also spent eight years in the military, also doing law enforcement.

Boyes said he brings several years of experience to the position. He has tactical team experience, has done field training and covert operations.

He was a field training officer until becoming sergeant, and then managed the program. When officers come out of the academy (which is 480 hours in Illinois, he said), officers have a 12-week on-the-job training program.

Prior to starting in East Troy, Boyes said he was excited to begin the job, and praised the Village Board's commitment to progressive police standards.

"Alan is an excellent choice for this position and will bring new perspectives to the department," Roberts said. "The village conducted a thorough study and needs assessment before making the hiring decision, which shows their interest in keeping the village safe."

In June the Village Board contracted with Criminal Justice Associates to evaluate the police department's operation. The report detailed operational improvement needs that are customary for a small police agency, according to a press release.

2008 band performances begin June 5th

The East Troy Community Band, under the direction of Jay Huenink, has announced its 2008 summer concert series. All performances by the band and guest artists during the eight-concert series take place Thursday evenings beginning at 7:30 p.m. on the Historic East Troy Village Square and are free. The East Troy Band's patriotic concert will be July 3 and is sponsored by First Citizens State Bank-East Troy office.

The band is especially pleased to announce the return of Swing Nouveau July 24. This group is a 15-piece swing band that has been drawing enthusiastic standing room only crowds of all ages at top clubs throughout the Milwaukee area. Decked out in their vintage wear, the big band will have the crowd grooving and dancing to their swing sounds.

Another highlight of this season will be the return of the 84th Division Army Reserve Band July 10. Other groups include the Renaissance Brass trumpet group June 12 and The Amigos Latin pop group June 26. The Alpine Valley Grand Finale concert date is to be announced. A complete schedule will be found on the band's Web site at www.etband.com.

The East Troy Community Band is a non-profit organization that sponsors the summer concert series with the help of individual and corporate donations. Donations may be sent to: East Troy Community Band, 3010 Main Street, East Troy, WI 53120. Pledge forms are available on the band's Web site.

Wisconsin Oven celebrates completion of addition

Wisconsin Oven Corporation recently celebrated the completion of a new 14,000 square foot addition to their Standard Division manufacturing facility and their 35th anniversary with an Open House Feb. 1. The addition was needed due to the steady increase in equipment sales over the past three years, resulting in record-breaking sales in 2007.

In order to maintain process efficiency and increase profitability, Wisconsin Oven kicked off a new program in 2005 they call the "Work of Champion" program. Under the umbrella of the program the company uses employee input through teams to evaluate the current processes at Wisconsin Oven. Focusing on continuous improvement and Lean manufacturing principals has resulted in the elimination of wasted time and labor.

As part of their 35-year anniversary, Wisconsin Oven will be hosting another Open House for all facilities in August for their employee's families and the East Troy Community.

Tim O'Leary is involved with state-of-the-art septic work. With more and more homes around lakes with limited space, he said they have to find viable systems that are working. He said technology has stepped up on the septic end. He said the state has opened it up, and if it'll work, they'll do it.

O'Leary has been focused on "going green" for several years. Dan O'Leary said they were doing radiant floor heating 10 years ago before anyone had heard of it.

Though it is more en vogue now, O'Leary has been working with it for a long time, and won't be learning on a customer's project. With several years of research and trial and error, he said O'Leary is "ahead of the curve" and can give customers a great product.

The next generation of O'Learys is also already a part of the business. Becky O'Leary is one of only eight women in Wisconsin with a plumbing license. Kevin O'Leary is also the head of the heating division.

New business aims to protect your computer

By Kurt Killberg
EAST TROY NEWS EDITOR

Maklary Technology Consulting, 3066 Main St. 102, East Troy, wants to be your computer's first line of defense.

Jim Maklary repairs computers, servers, anything in the technology field.

Maklary ran a Radio Shack store for 10 years, and also worked at Comp USA and Computer City. He said he has been in all facets of the business, and has taken the good ideas from some, and not forgotten the bad ideas from others.

For now the business is starting small, with Maklary's brother also working there. More employees will be hired, and distributors will be lined up for situations that can not be handled in-house.

Maklary said the biggest thing he stresses is the customer service aspect. He said some people have technical knowledge, but are not good "people-people." He said some of his favorite customers are those who would be the worst for other people.

The business' main focus is secure Internet back-up, especially for people with home office scenarios who use programs like Quick Books and Quicken to keep paperwork. He said if something happens to their data, it makes a big impact.

Currently Maklary Consulting is offering free 30-day back-up protection.

They also do network monitoring utilizing a large server at the office that he said is like "the Onstar of computers." They get notifications of potential issues, so if there is a small problem Maklary can either fix it remotely or go out on site. He said this approach works well for smaller companies that do not have Information Technology staff.

While advising businesses he said his approach is "You don't need that," since he wants to reduce the customers' costs so that they can stay in business.

He stresses that they have to please the customer, and even if something comes up that they can't fix, they communicate what the problem is, and what the solution is whether it is good or bad.

The location also sells printers, remanufactured Nu-kote printer cartridges, as well as regular cartridges and other cables and supplies people need to keep running.

Maklary can also take special orders for customers. He said he does not care where you buy it; if you have a problem, come and see him. He said he can also help you select the right product.

Maklary is authorized to sell Microsoft and IBM products, and has Microsoft product certifications.

The business will hold a grand opening Feb. 22 and 23, which will include drawings for free products. Maklary said they will be giving away mouse pads, and Princess Café will be bringing food trays on Saturday.

There will also be a drawing for free back-up for a year, gift cards and more.

The store's hours are Monday through Friday 10 a.m. to 7 p.m.; and Saturday 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., and can be reached at 642-2532 and found on the Web at www.maklaryconsulting.com.

Jim Maklary recently opened Maklary Technology Consulting at 3066 Main Street in East Troy.

Manor has experienced operating deficits for at least the last 10 years, not unlike the majority of skilled nursing facilities in Wisconsin.

The long-term solution will be a combination of ending reliance on agency labor, improving the resident mix to incorporate more Medicare and private pay residents to offset the losses incurred by having Medicaid (Title XIX) residents, and the ancillary revenue that will come from the addition of the Colonial assisted living facility and the new therapy center. Fundraising has been and will continue to be important in keeping the Manor going, but the annual needs are expected to be minimal compared to the current crisis.

Why should I donate now if the Save the Manor fundraising might not be successful enough to actually save the Manor? The Manor Board of Directors needs to be able to gauge the community's commitment to the Manor. A pledge to make a donation when the total of donations and pledges reaches a certain level (say $200,000) is a solution to this very good question. If everyone waits to see if the fund drive will be successful it will surely fail.

Why were we not aware of the Manor's financial troubles? As mentioned above, deficits are nothing new to the Manor. The Board has been reluctant to 'go public' with the extent of the Manor's financial difficulties for fear that the news might negatively impact perceptions of the Manor by current and potential residents and the public. The magnitude of the situation has made sharing this unavoidable.

Wisconsin Oven Corporation

Wisconsin Oven employees presenting Diana Watkins with a donation to benefit her husband, Russ, who was recently diagnosed with ALS.

At Wisconsin Oven Corporation, we recognize that our employees are the key to success. Through our Work of Champions and Lean Manufacturing programs, we encourage employee input and reward those employees that demonstrate outstanding performance. We would like to say Thank You to all of the employees that have contributed to our success over the past 35 years. Your hard work and dedication is the reason we are the leading manufacturer of industrial ovens.

Wisconsin Oven Corporation has been an active member of the East Troy Community for 35 years. Throughout our history we have been involved in the community through volunteer work, charitable contributions, and community renovations.

"The Lord has blessed our company with the opportunity to live our dream in America, and has given us the skills to succeed in life. As part of our mission, we pay it forward whenever we can."
- Dave Thord, President & CEO
