The East Troy Community Band has been entertaining audiences during outdoor concerts on the village square for the past decade.

East Troy Community Band to begin 10th anniversary season

The East Troy Community Band, under the direction of Jay Huenink, will begin its 10th anniversary season of its Thursday Nights on the Square concert series on Thursday, June 14 at 7:30 p.m.

Huenink founded the band in 2002 with just 22 members and a dream to bring free concerts to East Troy's historic village square. Membership in the band has grown to 50 members and the concerts have developed a growing following of lawn chair toting fans through the years.

The concert series features the band in alternate weeks with guest groups, giving the band a chance for rehearsal on the non-performance weeks. The season ends with a grand finale concert at Alpine Valley Music Theatre.

The 2012 schedule is as follows:

June 14: East Troy Community Band
June 21: The Squeezettes
June 28: East Troy Community Band – Patriotic Concert, sponsored by First Citizens State Bank – East Troy Office
July 5: TBA
July 12: East Troy Community Band
July 19: Swing Nouveau
July 26: East Troy Community Band
TBA: Grand Finale at Alpine Valley Music Theatre
The East Troy Community Band is a 501 (c)(3) organization, which relies completely on private contributions to pay the expenses of the band. The donations pay for the purchase of music, equipment and the guest groups. Contributions are appreciated in any amount and may be sent to the East Troy Community Band, c/o Jay Huenink, 3010 Main St., East Troy, WI 53120. Donors will be acknowledged in the program for the season finale.

Farmers Market adds to Thursday night lineup on the square

The East Troy Farmers Market returns to East Troy's historic village square on Thursday, June 14, providing a great reason to come to the first East Troy Community Band concert early, shop at the market, and then grab a quick dinner before the concert.

After spending two years on Saturdays, the market returns to Thursdays with a growing group of vendors and a fun-filled special event schedule. Under the leadership of Farmers Market Committee chairperson Mary Rohrer from Square Roots and the partnership of Michael Fields Agricultural Institute, early registration already shows a nice mix of vendors offering fresh produce, meat, eggs and prepared food.

Vendors already committed to the market this season, with registration still open for more, include Michael Fields Agricultural Institute, Rohrganics, Cindy's Greenhouse & Vegetables, Cobblestone Farm, The Grist Mill, Pop's Kettle Corn and Wild Flour Bakery.

Gearing up for the East Troy Cycling Classic

By Lori Szolwinski, First Citizens State Bank – East Troy Office
CHAMBER PRESIDENT

Please mark Friday, June 22 on your calendar, take the day off of work and invite your friends to East Troy so that you can attend the East Troy Cycling Classic.

The event will bring hundreds of professional cyclists to race around East Troy's historic village square seeking cash and glory as a part of the Tour of America's Dairyland – the largest competitive cycling event in the United States.

As you'll read on Page 3, the timed races take place in seven different categories throughout the day. The half-mile course will take riders around the historic village square onto neighborhood streets, creating a day of free family entertainment.

You may wonder how the Chamber got involved in hosting a bike race. It all started back on Jan. 5 when Dennis Klumb Jr. of East Troy brought the race organizers to the Chamber office to pitch the idea, along with an offer for the Klumb Family Foundation to fund half of the bid fees.

"We partnered with the Chamber to bring this event to East Troy because we want to showcase our hometown and provide a new, exciting venue for the race utilizing our historic village square,"

Dennis' mother Janice said in a press release announcing the race.

Since then a Chamber committee has been meeting every Friday to work out the details of this new event, discussing logistics with the Village of East Troy, meeting with neighbors and businesses on the race course and soliciting sponsorships to fund the balance of the bid fees and other race expenses.

The next mission of the committee is to get East Troy and the surrounding communities excited about the event.

Here's what you can do to help: Start with a visit to the Tour of America's Dairyland's official website at www.TourofAmericasDairyland.com, then search for video of past races in the series on YouTube. What you'll see is top-notch athletes competing in fast-paced races, complete with a pace car and an announcer giving constant commentary to educate the crowd about the riders and create more excitement. And you won't believe how fast these bikes move; the men's professional racers can reach speeds of 35 mph.

If you have any questions about the race, or can offer help as a volunteer, please contact the Chamber office at (262) 642-3770. Check out the Chamber website for updates at www.easttroywi.org.

East Troy to host stop in largest competitive cycling event in U.S.

East Troy's historic village square and the neighboring streets will transform into a professional cycling venue on Friday, June 22 as the community welcomes 500 men and women racers to the East Troy Cycling Classic.

The local event is the second day of the 11-day Tour of America's Dairyland (ToAD), the largest competitive cycling event in the United States, which starts in Shorewood on Thursday, June 21 and ends in Madison on Sunday, July 1. Other sites include the Giro d' Grafton on Saturday, June 23, the Waukesha Carl Zach Cycling Classic on Sunday, June 24, the Greenbush Road Race on Monday, June 25, the Schlitz Park Criterium (Downtown Milwaukee) on June 26, the Town of Erin Road Race on Wednesday, June 27, the Sheboygan Harbor Centre Bike Race on Thursday, June 28, the Fond du Lac Grand Prix on Friday, June 29 and the Downer Classic (Milwaukee's Eastside) on Sunday July 1.

In East Troy, the start/finish line for the races will utilize the stop sign line on Church Street at the southeast corner of the square, where race organizers will also erect a stage and announcer stand. Spectators will hear constant updates from the professional announcer, who will also promote racer primes (pronounced PREEMS).

These cash and prizes are offered up by sponsors and spectators to reward superior performance during specific sectors of the race.

The criterium races run on the .5 mile course that runs from the stop sign, north on Church Street, around the square, south on Division Street, west on Austin Street, south on Clark Street, east on South Street and north on Church Street to the beginning. The cyclists ride laps around the course for timed races that range from 40 to 90 minutes.

Spectators may watch the race anywhere on the race course, including on the square where concessions will be available, as well as access to all the businesses.

Title sponsor for the East Troy Cycling Classic is the Dennis and Janice Klumb Family Foundation, Inc., which put up half of the bid fees. Funding for the balance of the fees will come from other local and regional sponsors, who see the incredible value of hosting this unique event.

The race series is produced by Midwest Cycling Series, LLC. The Wisconsin Milk Marketing Board has been the presenting sponsor of the Tour of America's Dairyland since the pro-am cycling event's beginning in 2009. Over 9,000 cartons of chocolate milk were chugged by ToAD racers as a recovery drink in 2011.

The East Troy Area Chamber of Commerce serves as the local host and is organizing the local sponsors, vendors and volunteers.

"The Chamber is thrilled to have the opportunity to bring this type of high-caliber event to East Troy," Chamber president Lori Szolwinski said. "We're very grateful to the Klumb Family for making it possible."

For more information or to volunteer to help on race day, contact the East Troy Chamber of Commerce at (262) 642-3770, info@easttroywi.org or visit www.easttroywi.org for updates.

Historical societies to present local archaeological findings

The East Troy Area Historical Society will host a presentation by an archaeologist from Wisconsin Historical Society entitled, "The Archaeology of Old East Troy: Rediscovering the Influential Stephen Field Family (in a Very Unexpected Place) and Finding a Slice of 19th Century Wisconsin Life." The event will take place in Ivan's Backstage from 7-8 p.m. on Thursday, May 24. Admission is free.

Archeologist Paul Reckner will discuss recent archaeological excavations conducted in East Troy. His talk focuses on ongoing research at the original farmstead of the Field family, who settled there in 1839 and became one of 19th century Walworth County's most influential families.

Stephen Field was described as "a man of substance and influence among intelligent neighbors and townsmen." But who was this man, and what was his family's life in East Troy really like? This "biography through bottles, buttons and bones" uses archaeological evidence of everyday life in the Field's household to shed new light on the experiences of settler families, and on the development of the Southeast Wisconsin's early farming communities.

restoration, will also be featured.

• Chicago Days, Aug. 25 – 26: Celebrate Chicago's railway history during Chicago Days as the East Troy Electric Railroad features its collection of rapid transit cars that once whisked people around Chicago and its suburbs.

Riders of Chicago's "L" line prior to 1970 will remember the iconic 4000-series cars with their interesting interiors, old-time light fixtures, walk-over leatherette seats and "bowling alley seating at the ends."

• Milwaukee Days, Sept. 29 – 30: Home to the only remaining streetcar from the Milwaukee transit system still running the rails today, the East Troy Electric Railroad celebrates Milwaukee's rich railcar history during Milwaukee Days.

Joining the 1920-built streetcar, which once whisked residents from the greater Milwaukee area to the ball park and shopping centers, is a 1907 line car equipped to respond to trolley emergencies. Also featured during the weekend is L8, a stately locomotive built in 1935 that once provided track maintenance, brush-cutting services and was fitted with a snow plow to keep the tracks clear for line maintenance and freight service. Tours of the car barn, housing restored coaches and cars undergoing restoration, will also be featured.
